Yalta, Ukraine
Considering the natural beauty of the historic Crimean Peninsula’s mountainous southern coast, where majestic, 5,000-foot peaks rise dramatically from the Black Sea and lower slopes are cloaked in a mantle of Mediterranean oak, pistachio and juniper, it is no wonder that Yalta was a favorite seaside retreat for czars, commissars and literary giants, including Leo Tolstoy and Anton Chekhov. During the late 19th century, the Russian nobility flocked here to bask in the abundant sunshine and breathe the invigorating sea air. In 1911, Czar Nicholas II, the last of the Romanovs, built Livadia Palace, a Renaissance-style mansion of white granite, as a summer residence for his family. It was at Livadia, in February 1945, the historic Yalta Conference was held, where Franklin D. Roosevelt, Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin determined the post-World War II status of Germany and Eastern Europe.

Istanbul, Turkey
This legendary metropolis straddling the Bosphorus Strait is one of the loveliest cities in Europe and most splendid in Asia. Its position, where East meets West, the crossroads for trade and cultural exchange over centuries, has filled the city with magnificent architecture and monuments inspired by the region’s diverse faiths. Historic Istanbul is a UNESCO World Heritage site, and its highlights include the Hagia Sophia, Topkapi Palace and the Blue Mosque.

Sevastopol

The Crimean port of Sevastopol is built upon terraced hills overlooking a magnificent natural harbor. The former headquarters of Russia’s mighty Black Sea Fleet, which guarded the country’s southern border under the czars and the Soviets, today is an open-air museum dotted with hundreds of impressive monuments and memorials, recently rediscovered as the port.

remained closed to the outside world until 1990. The Sevastopol Panorama Museum offers a sweeping view of the city and harbor and impressive displays depicting the 1855 Battle of Sevastopol, a key engagement in the Crimean War. Nearby are the impressive excavated ruins of Khersones—a Greek trading settlement established in 421 B.C.—and the museum showcasing its artifacts as well as Bakhchisarai—Garden Palace—the opulent seat of the Tatar Khans who ruled Crimea from 1427 to 1783. The Khan’s Palace is noted for its harmonious blend of Persian, Turkish and Italian architectural elements and its legendary Fountain of Tears, which inspired Aleksandr Pushkin’s great poem The Fountain of Bakhchisaray.

Odessa

Founded by Catherine the Great in 1789 to guard the southern approaches to her empire, Odessa, “The Pearl of the Black Sea,” is a graceful city of tree-lined avenues and Franco-Italian architecture. The city’s iconic feature is the majestic Potemkin Stairs, extending from the harbor to the city center and immortalized in Sergei Eisenstein’s cinema classic, The Battleship Potemkin. You may choose to stroll down tree-lined Deribasovskaya Street, the city’s lively commercial heart; relax in a café in the glass-vaulted Passazh Corridor; or visit the ornate Odessa Opera House and Ballet, rebuilt by Austrian architects in 1887. Beneath the city, through the sandstone on which Odessa lies, is a vast network of catacombs that were unearthed during the 19th century and have since served as hiding places and smuggling routes during World War II.

Gothic, Northern European and Moorish styles blend harmoniously in Crimea’s 19th-century Alupka Palace.
Constanța, Romania
Legend has it that Jason and the Argonauts landed in Constanța after finding the Golden Fleece. This principal seaport in Romania was established as the Greek trading settlement of Tomis in the sixth century B.C., later ruled by Romans, Byzantines and Ottoman Turks, and today remains a magnificent composite of all these civilizations.

In the Archaeological and Natural History Museum, intriguing artifacts from the Greco-Roman era include the second-century Glykon Serpent. One of the most notable pieces of Roman archaeological fragments is a third-century A.D. mosaic that may have been part of the ancient Roman baths once located near the museum’s lower terrace. Today, many elegant mansions and hotels remain from the 19th century, when King Carol I decided to revive the city as a port and seaside resort.

Nessebur, Bulgaria
The small port of Nessebur is a sixth-century B.C. Greek-founded town and a UNESCO World Heritage site. Despite covering only one-tenth of one square mile along the rocky coast, Nessebur is a synthesis of centuries-old civilizations and proudly preserves 11 Byzantine-influenced churches and many fine 19th-century timber houses. The 13th- to 14th-century stone and redbrick Pantokrator Church is the town’s loveliest and best preserved. In the center of Old Nessebur, not far from the Byzantine town gate, are the remnants of St. Sofia Church, built in the late fifth and early sixth centuries.

Istanbul Pre-Cruise Option*
The only city in the world that bridges two continents, Istanbul is a fitting prelude to your Black Sea odyssey. Enjoy an exclusive audience with the Archbishop of Constantinople, His All Holiness Bartholomew I (Archbishop’s schedule permitting) and guided tours of the city’s UNESCO World Heritage site landmarks—Hagia Sophia, Topkapi Palace and the Blue Mosque. This special two-night option features accommodations in the deluxe Grand Hyatt Istanbul.

Walk through the surreal volcanic stone forests of unearthly Cappadocia.

Cappadocia Post-Cruise Option*
Inland Turkey holds one of nature’s most captivating treasures, the otherworldly landscape of Cappadocia, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Fly to the heart of Anatolia, the enchanting world of volcanic rock formations and spectacularly colored valleys. Here, local vintners continue to produce wine just as their ancestors have for more than 3,000 years. Visit 2,000-year-old rock-hewn villages and learn about the region’s distinctive culture. Accommodations will be for two nights in the deluxe Cappadocia Cave Resort, in the National Park of Göreme, and one night in the deluxe Grand Hyatt Istanbul.

In the Footsteps of History

A highway of commerce, conquest and ideas since the fifth century B.C., the stunningly beautiful Crimean Peninsula and surrounding Black Sea countries showcase a 21st-century tapestry of cultural treasures woven together over millennia of ruling Greeks, Goths, Huns, Ottoman Turks, Golden Horde Tatars, Mongols, Venetians and Genoese.

Walk in the footsteps of Greek colonists who founded the city of Khersones, the Roman Legions who arrived in the first century A.D. and Catherine the Great, who on her first visit in 1787 to this idyllic setting and mild climate blooming with lush flora was greeted by a cavalcade of 12,000 Tatar horsemen in ceremonial uniform and escorted to the Khan’s Palace.

Explore the cultural treasures left by Russian royalty, who subsequently flocked to the Crimean Riviera and built lavish summer palaces that still display the opulent social legacy of the czars.

You will even have an opportunity to stroll through the corridors and garden of Livadia, Czar Nicholas II’s favorite summer residence and later the site of the world-changing Yalta Conference in February of 1945, where the “Big Three,” U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Russian General Secretary Joseph Stalin, met to determine Europe’s postwar reorganization.

Learn more about the Crimean War, the first modern war, which was famously documented in Alfred Lord Tennyson’s poem “The Charge of the Light Brigade,” and how it illuminated the efforts of a young British nurse, Florence Nightingale, whose work pioneered advances in the nursing profession and inspired Swiss social activist Henry Dunant to implement the Red Cross Movement shortly thereafter.

These seldom-visited ports of the Black Sea are now open to the Western world, and the Crimean’s spectacular scenery, expansive vineyards and enchanting people beckon travelers to delve into the region’s rich history.

The fifth-century Greek trading settlement of Khersones was one of the first democracies run by elected officials.
